WHITE HOUSE WEDDING

Arrangements For Longworth-Roosevelt Nuptials Made.

More Than One Thousand Invitations Have Been Issued.—The First Honeymoon Trip Will Be Made to Florida.

Washington, Feb. 12.—The arrangements for the marriage in the white house have about been completed.

The wedding of Miss Alice Roosevelt, daughter of the president, to Representative Nicholas Longworth, will take place at the white house at noon Saturday, February 17. The ceremony which will be performed in the historic east room, will be solemnized by Rt. Rev. Henry Y. Satterlee, Protestant Episcopal bishop of Washington. There will be no bridesmaids.

The groom's best man will be Thomas Nelson Perkins, of Boston, a classmate and longtime friend. Three of Mr. Longworth's classmates and a college mate at Harvard, B. A. Wallingford, Jr., of Cincinnati, who married Mr. Longworth's oldest sister, Larz Anderson, of Washington, great grandson of Nicholas Longworth, the founder of the Longworth family fortune; Viscount Charles De Chambrun, brother of Count Adelbert De Chambrun, who married the groom's youngest sister, and Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., the oldest son of the president, will be the ushers.

One thousand invitations to the wedding have been issued. Those invited exclusive of the wedding party include the members of the cabinet and their wives, former members of the cabinet who are now in the United States senate and their wives, the heads of the foreign embassies and missions and their wives, the official members of the party which accompanied Secretary Taft to the Orient, the Ohio delegation in congress and the New York delegation in congress. Late in the afternoon Mr. Longworth and his bride will leave Washington on a trip to Florida, traveling in a special car. After the adjournment of congress they expect to make a trip to Europe.

Miss Alice Roosevelt will not be the only handsomely gowned woman at her wedding. The simple fact is that never in the history of weddings in this country have there been such preparations for resplendent gowning. The dressmakers of five cities—Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Boston—say that never before in their experience have such orders for wedding costumes been placed with them.

As the white house already is taxed how to dispose of the great mass of wedding gifts, just what Miss Alice is to do with them in the house which she is to occupy as Mrs. Longworth is difficult to decide.

STATE ODDS AND ENDS

THE KENTUCKY LEGISLATORS.

Bill To Increase Salaries of Clerical Force of Railroad Commissioners.

Frankfort, Feb. 8.—The senate had its first strenuous job in discussing the bill to increase the salaries and clerical force of the railroad commissioners. The bone of contention was a section providing that railroads should provide or pay for the transportation of the commissioners when traveling on official business. The bill passed after two hours' wrangle, with the free transportation clause still in it. Other bills acted on by committees: To hold all primary elections on the last Saturday in July each year, favorably; to amend election law as prepared by the Bar association, favorably, with some amendments; to abolish registration in fifth and sixth class towns, unfavorably.

Mr. McKnight, of the Goebel memorial committee, reported a resolution providing for paying the expenses of the day, amounting to $221, which the house adopted. Mr. Klair put through a resolution similar in form to that of Representative Will Young, of Rowan county, defeated a week ago, proposing a legislative committee to go to Breathitt county and investigate conditions. Mr. Miller, of Harlan, called up house bill No. 103, proposing to pay the expenses of the state school superintendent when out in the state on business of his office. It was adopted by a vote of 81 to 5.

Frankfort, Feb. 9.—The committee on public morals reported favorably Judge Barry's bill to prevent shipment of liquors to an agent in a local option district, the Griffith bill prohibiting Sunday baseball and football, the Klair bill against presenting plays apt to excite race prejudice, and the Barry bill raising saloon license to $5,000. The senate committee on religion and morals held a session to consider the famous county unit local option bill. After passing the two house bills creating two new circuit court districts in Eastern Kentucky the senate got into a lively wrangle over the bill creating a state board of agriculture, forestry and immigration.

Representative Stewart introduced a resolution directing the president of A. and M. college to furnish a statement showing the amounts paid to each teacher, officer and employee of the college during the last five years, and a statement of his duties, by whom employed and when, and the full amounts paid by the institution for all purposes. The resolution was adopted unanimously. Frankfort, Feb. 10.—The senate committee on criminal law decided to recommend for passage the bill of Senator Ben Johnson, of Nelson, which provides that any one on trial for murder, manslaughter, shooting or wounding or in any way injuring another, can not put in a plea of self-defense if he carried in his possession a deadly weapon as much as 12 hours before the injury was committed. There is said to be some doubt about the constitutionality of the bill, but it will be pressed for passage by its author and let the courts pass on it after it becomes a law.

The race track owners in Kentucky will be on the anxious seat from now until the end of the season, for Representative Russell, of Todd county, Friday introduced a bill in the house to limit racing on any one track to 40 days in any year. This will not affect Lexington, and may not do any great harm to the old Louisville track, but if it passes it will interfere with the Latonia plans and also the projected plans of the new Douglass track in Louisville. The woman's vote on local option was killed in the house.

LACERATED BY A BULLDOG.

Attacked a Young Man While Playing With a Companion.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 12.—While engaged in a friendly scuffle with a stable boy at the Kenmore breeding farm, Howard Sayre, son of J. Will Sayre, proprietor of the establishment, was seriously lacerated by the attack of a vicious bulldog. Young Sayre struck at the stable boy several times in a playful mood, when the dog, evidently thinking that his boon companion was being mistreated, jumped at young Sayre and threw him to the ground. The boy, who is in delicate health, was unable to successfully resist the attack of the infuriated animal, and had it not been for the timely arrival of Lee Anderson his injuries would have been more serious, as the dog was on top of the lad, with his teeth imbedded in the forearm. The dog was used as a watchdog by Trainer Julius Bauer, who uses the farm as winter quarters for his thoroughbred horses.

EDITOR C. C. MOORE.

Did He Die As a Believer Or An Unbeliever?

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 9.—Did Charles C. Moore, the noted infidel editor, die with the Lord's prayer on his lips or as he had lived the latter years of his life, an avowed atheist and a non-believer in the Book of God? This is the question that has been asked a thousand times during the past 24 hours since his death, and, while the members of his family believe that he changed his views before death, his intimate friends think otherwise, although some of the latter were present at the deathbed. Mrs. Josephine K. Henry, of Versailles, Ky., will be present at his funeral services and deliver an oration. The ceremony, which will be held in the chapel at the Lexington cemetery, will be marked by the absence of all features of a religious character. Dr. J. B. Wilson, of Cincinnati; Mrs. Henry and Moses Kaufman, of this city, will conduct the services. The pallbearers will be Jas. E. Hughes, publisher of the Blue Grass Blade; Senator J. Campbell Cantrell, nephew of the deceased; Mack D. Richardson, Thomas W. Moore, Charles W. Moore, Russell Wilson, Thomas R. Garner and Dr. J. H. Wood. Several well-known ministers expressed a desire to be present. An intimate friend of the family stated that the reports that all of the family were of a different belief than that expressed by the agnostic were false, as Mrs. Moore entertained the same belief and was happy that her husband had died as he had lived.

DEATH MAY FOLLOW.

Young Society Leader Was Stabbed in a Row in Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 12.—Robert Bridgeford, 30, of the brokerage firm of Hunt, Bridgeford & Co., a society leader, is dying at the Norton Memorial infirmary from stabs alleged to have been inflicted by negroes at First and Walnut streets. Bridgeford, accompanied by John Armstrong, a New York broker; Ike Hilliard, Virgil Bickel, Hite Huffaker and Charles Meyer, was going from the Tavern club to the Galt house to deposit Mr. Armstrong's baggage. En route they stopped at a saloon. Bridgeford and Huffaker, while leaving the place, it is said, had an altercation with negroes. Basil Purdy, colored, was arrested, charged with the crime. He says that Hilliard and his friends entered his house while a party was in progress, under the impression, he alleges, that the place was an immoral resort.
